SALEM

SALEM, Mar. 31.—The body of Daniel Hessian reached Salem last week and was buried at the Catholic cemetery.

Mr. Hessian was born and reared near Industrial and moved West about twenty-seven years ago. The unfortunate man met his death from a snow slide at Mullan, Idaho.

Real estate transactions continue active in and near Salem. Randolph and Lowther have sold a tract of the Jehu Williams farm, just east of here, to Mr. Sheets, who will build a residence on it this spring. J. H. Moore has purchased, at a liberal price, the Marshall L. Nuzum farm on Hall's run, and Mr. Nuzum has bought the Thomas Mowrey residence on West Main street. Mr. Nuzum will move to Salem with his family. J. B. Hamrick has bought the Joel F. Randolph vacant lot just west of the college and will build a fine dwelling on it this summer.

The trustees of the Baptist church contemplate selling the old Baptist church property, and this will most likely be converted into residence property.

L. C. Washburn has resigned as manager of the Salem Amusement Company to give his full time to his position with the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company, with offices located at Salem. Mr. Washburn will have control of all the territory of the northern half of the state.

A happy and pleasant sentiment prevails about the college, and about the entire town because of the successful efforts of President Clarke in securing sufficient gifts and pledges to cancel the entire debt of Salem College. This was announced at chapel exercises last week at the opening of the spring term. The pleasing news was greeted by the students and visitors in rapturous and prolonged cheers.

The first day's enrollment at the college numbered 175. This does not include the kindergarten section nor many who are engaged in teaching rural schools, schools that have not yet closed, and who will enroll later.

Two excellent citizens are preparing to remove from here. Mrs. D. L. Nutter moves to Grant district and Prof. H. D. Snider to Sedalia. Hector Deley, the late treasurer of the Modern Window Glass Company, with his family has returned to Belgium. They started for their native country last week and many of their neighbors regret to see them leave.

GRAFTON, Mar. 31.—James H. Stout, of this city, who has been an Odd Fellow for fifty-two years, has just resigned as treasurer after a service of thirty years in that office. He has frequently been a representative of the local lodge to the grand lodge of the order, and is one of the most prominent Odd Fellows in the state.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Care With Which England's Standards Are Preserved.

Every twenty years government officials compare the current weights and measures with the standards, which are sealed up in the staircase of the house of commons. There are only two standards, the pound weight and the yard measure. The standard pound is of platinum, which despite its weight is no larger than a cubic inch, and, small as it is, the metal of which it is composed is worth $40. The standard yard is a bar of bronze thirty-eight inches long, on which a yard has been marked off in thirty-six divisions of an inch. The greatest possible care is taken of these two important articles.

When a comparison is being made they are handled with tongs. The pound weight is weighed in the most delicate of chemical balances, and the yard is measured with a micrometer. When they are done with the pound it is wrapped in a special soft paper and laid in a silver gilt case, which is placed in a bronze case, this being put in a wooden box, afterward screwed down and sealed. The yard measure is placed on eight rollers in a mahogany case, which is carefully sealed. Both cases are then put into a leaden casket, which is sealed by soldering. The packing is not yet finished, however, for the lead case is placed in a strong oak box. When this is screwed down it is placed in the hole in the wall. The wall is built up by a mason, and the standards can only be obtained by demolishing it once more.—London Globe.

AN ACUTE ABSCESS.

The Way It Forms and the Way It Should Be Treated.

An abscess is a swelling that contains pus. It may be either acute or chronic, and it may either be deeply seated in the body or it may appear upon the surface. The chronic or "cold abscess" is generally of tuberculous origin, whereas the acute or "hot abscess" is the result of an infection by the pus microbes.

The acute abscess comes on suddenly with all the signs of severe inflammation—heat, redness, swelling and pressure. The sufferer often feels ill and has a slight degree of fever. In three or four days the abscess begins to soften, and the pain diminishes, because the surface skin is being destroyed, and the tension upon the sore spot is not so great. By and by there is only one layer left, through which the pus can be seen. This thin layer soon ruptures, and the pus escapes. Relief is immediate, and healing soon begins.

When the inflammation is deeply seated the affair is more serious. In such cases the pus may burrow until it invades some vital structure—the peritoneum or the brain, for instance—and a fatal result is not impossible.

The treatment of abscesses has changed much in late years. Formerly the acute abscess was allowed to form and break without surgical interference unless it threatened life or caused too much distress. Now the physician does not wait for it to pass through the natural stages. As soon as it appears he makes an incision and releases the poison before it has a chance to cause the formation of pus. He cleans the cavity thoroughly and keeps it continually moistened with an antiseptic solution. It must be allowed to drain freely, and moist antiseptic dressings should be applied while the wound is healing.—Youth's Companion.

PUDDLES OF SILVER.

Crude Methods That Are Used at the Mines in Mexico.

It was at Pachuca, Mexico, that the patio system of separating silver had its origin. This system is still followed extensively at the silver mines throughout Mexico. The ore is crushed and worked down to a state of puddle. It is then spread out to a depth of two or three feet over the paved floor of the courtyard, or patio. This mass sulphate of copper is added in powder, about fifteen pounds of sulphate to 3,000 pounds of puddle. This is trodden into the puddle by horses. Several gangs of old, worn out horses or mules, about twelve in a gang, are seen in various parts of the patio, being driven round in circles to tread in the sulphate.

On the next day 6 per cent of common salt is added and in two more days 100 per cent of pure quicksilver or as much as the assay of the ore shows is required. This mass is then trodden up by horses for fifteen days. It is then wheeled to a large tank through which passes a rapid stream of water. This washes away the clay, leaving the silver and quicksilver. This residuum is poured into cone shaped canvas bags through which most of the quicksilver runs out, and what remains with the silver is passed off with the vapor by means of heated retorts.

None of the quicksilver is lost, and even the vapor is brought by cold water to its original state and used again and again. The quicksilver soon rots the hoofs of the horses and the mules, but the Mexicans themselves do not seem to be much the worse for it, even though they wade around in the puddle for days at a time.—Harper's Weekly.

A Cinder In the Eye.

Who hasn't had difficulty in dislodging a cinder from the eye? Sometimes one can succeed with a corner of a handkerchief, but frequently the cinder is too deeply imbedded to be got out in that way. It would be hard to find a more sticky substance than chewing gum. The next time you see any one with a cinder in his eye just chew a piece of gum till it becomes soft and pliant, twist it to a fine point and you will find as soon as you touch the cinder with it out the cinder will come.—Leslie's.

Her Request.

"Father," said the fair, timid young girl, "my William is coming to see you this evening, and I beg you will allow me in his case to reverse my usual request to you."

"What is that?" asked the father suspiciously.

"When he comes," she sighed, as a pearly drop rolled down her cheek, "please don't foot this bill."—Baltimore American.

Very Cautious.

"Mrs. Wetmore is one of the most cautious persons I have ever known."

"Yes. She was telling me the other day that she never kept a striking clock in the kitchen because she thought that if she did so the cook might acquire the habit."—Chicago Record-Herald.

She Could Hardly Believe It.

Painless Surgery.

Surgery cannot be said to be entirely painless until the doctor uses an anesthetic when presenting his bill.—Washington Post.

CHEERFUL NEWS

FOR FEEBLE OLD PEOPLE.

As one grows old the waste of the system becomes more rapid than repair, the organs act more slowly and less effectually than in youth, the circulation is poor, the blood thin and digestion weak.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil is the ideal strengthener and body-builder for old folks, for it contains the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissues and replace weakness with strength. Vinol also fortifies the system against colds and thus prevents pneumonia.

A grand niece of Alexander Hamilton over eighty years of age once remarked: "Vinol is a god-send to old people. Thanks to Vinol I have a hearty appetite, sleep soundly, feel active and well. It is the finest tonic and strength creator I have ever used."

If Vinol fails to build up the feeble, old people, and create strength we will return your money. Stone & Mercer, druggists, Clarksburg, W. Va.

OLIVE Tablets OIL the Bowels

A Physician's Substitute for Dangerous Calomel.

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Substitute for Calomel. Calomel is effective, but dangerous—causing bad after-effects.

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of Calomel. Dr. Edwards for years has been Calomel's foe. He saw its dangers and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice, treating patients for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints. In his efforts to do without Calomel he developed his now famous little olive-oil-colored tablets. Olive Tablets are mild but effective. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take but unfailing in results.

Olive Tablets oil the bowels just enough to start Nature's own action, and they tone up the liver at the same time. They are made from a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

If you want to regain that feeling of joyous buoyancy and clear thought take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They work like a vacation. 10 and 25 cents per box.

"Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own." The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O.—Advertisement.
